SCHOOL REPORT.

The Statistical Report of our schools the past year, a blank form for which was furnished by the Secretary of State has been filled out and completed as the law requires, but not distributed with this printed report.

There has been raised by taxation the past year for school purposes, $773, and received of the Literary Fund money, $109 59, which added to the former sum, amounts to $882 59. Of that, $24 40 has been paid to Seytheville District in New London, to which a portion of our Town has been annexed for school purposes.

For the first time in my recollection, our Treasurer has contributed no school funds for the towns of Sutton and Springfield, as has been done heretofore, without warrant of law, save that of a custom, adverse to every principle of justice, and of self-preservation. The balance of said money, amounting to the sum of $858 19, has been distributed among, and to thirteen localities, called school districts, in sums, as appears in the following statement, together with names of Prudential Committees, number of scholars and length of schools in each District the past year :

No. of Dis.	Committee.	Am't.	No. of Scholars.	Weeks of school.

It appears by the foregoing statement that District No. 8 received the largest amount of school money, and had twenty-three weeks of schooling the past year; and that District No. 5 had the smallest amount,—a little more than one-fourth of the amount of No. 8, and had a term of nineteen and three-fifths weeks. The same studies were pursued in both schools. The teacher qualified to teach in one of those Districts ought to be, and was qualified to teach in the other, so far as literary attainments are concerned. The experience of one of these teachers over the other, may, perhaps better qualify the one, of larger experience, to take charge of the larger school and entitle such to higher wages. That is not quite clear however, for both were alike successful. The scholars in each, made satisfactory progress and the studies were as numerous and varied in one as the other. The average attendance of one, was 15,—the other 24. This Committee is unable to give any reason why as much learning and capacity is not required to govern and impart knowledge to the class of fifteen as that of twenty-five, for enlisting the interests and directing the efforts of the one as well as the other.

District No. 8 expended $177 68, raised by taxation, including money raised in 1876 and not expended that year, for 23 weeks of school; while District No. 5 expended but $45 28, raised by taxation, for 19 3-5 weeks of school. This remarkable difference in the results as above set forth suggests matter for reflection and serious consideration. The actual expenses of running schools in the different Districts in the Town are quite uniform and very much the same in all the districts. There ought to be no difference in the expense of board, fuel and repairs. There is, has been and reasonably may be, a difference in the price paid for services of teachers, which makes some difference in the results, but nothing like what appears by the foregoing statement. We think there has been poor judgment and economy manifested in the price paid for services,

The larger Districts seek first-class teachers without regard to price, and are satisfied, when such are obtained, no matter what the price may be. It is not only right, but a duty to obtain the services of efficient, well-qualified and first-class teachers; but there is no reason why the price for their services should not be effected, and reduced by the severity of the times as well as all other labor. There are many teachers, thoroughly qualified for the business, whose services can be obtained, and are waiting for employment.

We have many Districts with small amount of funds from taxes, whose chief effort is to husband their funds in the most economical manner, and lengthen their school thereby. Such look for and obtain the services of young and inexperienced teachers at small, and sometimes very low wages. It is evident this course will not always prove most judicious. It is an experiment liable to fail. Experience in teaching, as in all other business, makes the master workman.

The wages paid to teachers the past year, however, is but a small item which enters into the cause for prolonging the schools in our small Districts. In eight Districts that result has been accomplished by contribution in wood, board and repairs, so that the whole school money has been paid the teachers, or nearly so; while in four or five of the others every thing has been paid for, out of the school funds, not only for wood, board and repairs, but for cleaning and sweeping school rooms, for building fires, opening doors in morning and closing them at night,—everything is paid for out of the school funds which have been raised by taxation. This mainly, is the reason why the small sums distributed to many of the Districts accomplish results nearly equal to other Districts which have three or four times the amount of funds. This liberality by way of contribution in the Districts is commendable in the highest degree, and what ought to be done in every District.

The amount raised under the requirement of law is small, and it is not easy to get a vote of the town to raise much more than what is required. Every parent in town who has scholars, is desirous of giving them a good thorough English education. The amount of money raised by taxation does not quite meet those desires. Many now are away at a large expense, attending school to learn what might and ought to be learned at our common district schools. Every district should obtain the services of an efficient, working and competent teacher of the first class; should contribute to the school funds in ways and manner adopted in Dist. No. 5 and others. There are enough in every district to do that much, whose pecuniary interest will be promoted thereby, though all may not join. It can be done without great inconvenience, and will bring it within the means of all to give their children the privilege of obtaining as good an English education as seven tenths of the graduates from our academies ever obtain. When parents understand their true interest in this regard and make such effort and sacrifice within their means to do, in this direction, they will enhance the privileges of town schools four fold.

To this end District No. 4 and No. 5 ought to be united, and the same with Districts No. 3 and No. 13. District No. 4 has been without a school house for twenty-five years, and to day is without a legal existence, entitled to none of the school money. Whatever of the school funds have been drawn out of the town treasury the past year and expended in that district has been illegal, if I have been rightly informed. Your committee understand there was no school meeting, or any attempt to have one in said district the past year. If that be true the district lost its organization. The statutes provides a way to re-organize in such a case. That it has not been done, or attempted, by taking the first steps in that direction. That as a substitute for all the known legal proceedings under such circumstances, the selectmen have appointed an agent, styling him prudential committee and clerk to receive the money. The same has been so received and schooled out in the usual way as heretofore. This has all been done supposing it to be legal, just and right no doubt. The territory formerly composing Dist. No. 4, all unorganized should be annexed to Dist. No. 5, and it is now a good time to do it. The districts are contiguous. The school house could be located in a central position with little expense, so that no scholar at the present time, would be farther from it than some are in District No. 1 from theirs. With their funds united there would be a respectable sum for one school; there would be saved the expense of running one school, as one teacher could easily take charge of all, which together with the usual interest and liberality manifested heretofore in these districts by parents and agents, would give them one of the best schools in town with superior advantages.

Districts No. 3 and 13 constituted one district formerly. The school houses in each stand in full view and within rifle shot of each other. United they would have twenty-four scholars at most, and about $150 usually, of the school funds. There is no serious obstacle in the way of union here; on the contrary everything points to the practicability and utility of such a union. Both of the old houses would make one good house, and would have to be moved not more than forty rods on an old highway discontinued only by abandonment, to meet on the same ground. These schools united would rank among the best in town with advantages inferior to none other.

If the matters and views heretofore alluded to and expressed, so interesting in detail, so important in practice, should be adopted and carried out, good and pleasing results would follow as I believe.

The prudential committee throughout the town, with but two or three exceptions, have been fortunate in obtaining the services of teachers well qualified, of suitable temper and disposition, who have applied their energies with uncommon success. The exceptions have not been failures in but few respects, one of which was in the use of the black board. I supposed it to be universal knowledge, that the black board and its daily use were indispensable to a good school. Strange it is, that there should be any who would undertake to run a school without a black board, or without using one. To furnish black boards, not brow, grey or white, but black boards ample in breadth and surface is the known duty of every district. The daily use of the same is the known duty and business of every teacher.

"The number of weeks the public schools have been kept in each district in summer and winter, the number of scholars attending, studies pursued," &c. are put in tabulated form not printed. Of the studies attended to, the best progress has been made in Arithmetic, as a whole. A few have done equally well in Grammar. The number of grammarians are comparatively small. Reading of course is a universal study, but the instruction given has generally been not as good as mathematics. Scholars in District No. 1 have had superior advantages in that respect the past winter. Their efforts in reading have been quite as interesting and successful as in other studies, and more than heretofore. Other classes, in Geography, and especially in spelling, in most of the schools, have exhibited that degree of accuracy, readiness and brilliancy which indicate study, interest, and ambition to excel. The teachers on the whole have done their work well. A very small number have not come up fully to the standard of a reasonable expectation, owing to inexperience and want of familiarity with the studies taught, which experience will give them.

The different methods by which successful teachers hold their pupils to, and interest them in the work before them, some excelling in one way and in some studies which with them seem to be a speciality; others in another way and in other branches of education, suggest the importance and great value of association and visitation among schools in town while in operation by teachers and their older pupils. It would add to their experience, give new ideas, improve methods and excite emulation. From my long experience in visiting schools, I am thoroughly impressed with the importance and usefulness of such visits, and unhesitatingly recommend the practice at the expense of the time devoted to school purposes whenever practicable.

Respectfully submitted,

WM. W. FLANDERS,

S. S. Committee of Wilnot.
